DOCTOR WORKS CANCER

MADRID, Spain — Miraculous! That's what experts are saying about a doctor who has cured 93 percent of her cancer patients.

Dr. Carmen Medina of Madrid's Provincial Hospital has treated over 11,000 cancer patients during the past 14 years and has succeeded in making the deadly disease disappear totally in 93.8 percent of her clients.

She has worked wonders with skin cancer, breast cancer, cancer of the larynx and many types of sarcomas — yet news of her incredible work has never spread beyond the borders of Spain.

"More than 11,000 patients treated over 14 years with 93 percent remissions — a significant number of patients who not only have not died, but who live a normal life," marveled Madrid's prestigious newspaper Ya in a front-page story.

"Here is surely a treatment that is valid and important," said Dr. Alfredo Die Goyanes, chief cancer surgeon at the famed Ramon Y Cajal Center of Madrid.

"Her work must continue because it represents one of the most important elements of the treatment of cancer anywhere in the world."

Dr. Medina's astounding cancer cure involves removing the malignant growth surgically and then harnessing the body's high-powered immune system through a process utilizing a substance called Phytohoemogluninin (PHA).

MICROSCOPIC view of cancer cells, right. Dr. Medina believes she has found a way to destroy them and the results seem to confirm it.

Inez Castro

OVARIAN CANCER

Mother of three Inez Castro, 53, was in terrible pain when she came to Dr. Medina in 1980 with a stage-four cancer of the ovaries, which had spread to other parts of her body.

The Madrid housewife had been in treatment with Dr. Medina in 1977 and 1978 for a skin cancer of the leg, but had left when family problems made clinic visits impossible.

The dedicated cancer doctor immediately began treatments on her patient again — and, miraculously, her ovarian cancer disappeared!

"I had felt bad all over with the ovarian cancer," Mrs. Castro told The Weekly World News.

"There was inflammation, I was in a lot of pain.

"But I had faith in Dr. Medina. She had helped me before — I thought she could do it again.

"I'm so glad I went back to her.

"I was facing death with only three months to live, and Dr. Medina most definitely helped me.

"Now I have completely recuperated and feel wonderful again. I am very, very happy about it."

MIRACLES ON PATIENTS!

She has a 93% cure rate!

cancer victim and, in the laboratory, the patient's lymphocites are stimulated to produce interleukin 2, the human body's own potent cancer fighting agent.

When the treated blood is reinjected into the stricken patient, cancer-killing cells home in on deadly tumors and destroy them, leaving the patient without any signs of the horrifying disease.

"By now we have worked 14 years using this method and we see a very high percentage of these patients continuing free of disease," said Dr. Medina in an interview with The Weekly World News.

"They usually go on to lead a normal life.

"And this includes patients whose cancers had already spread to other parts of the body.

"With this immunotherapy treatment we have been able to arrest the cancers and achieve a total remission and after years they are still free of cancer."

Incredibly, Dr. Medina's 14-year triumph has received little notice, while other researchers with lower success rates are grabbing headlines around the world.

But word of her success has traveled around Spain and hundreds of patients are begging for admission to her treatment program.

"They said I had three months to live and no more," said a typical patient of Dr. Medina, housewife Inez Castro, 53, of Madrid. "I had cancer of the ovaries which had spread to other sites in my body. I was facing a painful death.

"I began the immunotherapy treatments with her in March 1977, and since then I feel fine.

"I'm raising three sons and taking care of my 80-year-old mother. Dr. Medina has made a new woman of me — much better than ever before. I am very, very happy."

A spokesman for the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., said: "If Dr. Medina is really getting these kinds of results, I'd have to say she is doing something rather remarkable."

CURES ARE DOCUMENTED IN CASE AFTER CASE

Manuel Plaza

MALIGNANT TUMORS

Manuel Plaza, a 55-year-old businessman from Melilla, Spain, had an egg-sized tumor in his armpit when he first visited Dr. Medina in 1974, and another malignancy in his intestine. Although his cancers were in a later stage, Dr. Medina's miracle immunotherapy cured him.

Today the avid sportsman is cancer-free and feels fine — well enough to snorkle and fish as he used to before he became ill.

"This doctor is extremely courageous," Plaza told The Weekly World News. "And I have total confidence in her treatments. She's a great lady.

"When I came to her I was nearly dead of anemia. I had no energy. I was deathly ill.

"Since I've had immunotherapy I've been in total remission. That's been 14 years — without any sign of recurrence.

"Initially I was very pessimistic about my chances. But who can argue with her results?

"I have undergone the treatments for years without any side effects. I have gone on living normally — including participating in my favorite sports."

Concepcion Izarra

MELANOMA

Nine years ago nurse Concepcion Izarra learned she had a deadly, fast-growing cancer. She had a black cancerous tumor on her forearm and surgeons predicted she'd be dead in three months as the cancer spread.

Fortunately for her, Concepcion was enrolled in Dr. Medina's immunological clinic at the Provincial Hospital in Madrid.

Today she is alive and perfectly healthy — and full of gratitude to the doctor who saved her life.

"This woman is a dedicated doctor and researcher, an immensely impressive person," said Concepcion, 34.

"When a dermatologist found my tumor I was eight months pregnant. I had a cesarean and afterward began treatment with Dr. Medina, but frankly, I was very frightened. I took it for granted I was going to die. My cancer was very advanced — in the fifth stage — and surgeons said I had no more than three months to live.

"After a few months of treatment, though, my cancer turned around completely. Today, I am healthy and feel perfectly fine."

Carmelo Sevilla

CHILDHOOD CANCER

Carmelo Sevilla is a teenager today, thanks to Dr. Medina. He would have died at the age of 5 without her help.

The teen — who doesn't even know he had cancer — was brought to the Provincial Hospital with a cancerous tumor on his scalp the size of an orange and doctors predicted he would die within four months of the disease.

Instead he received immunotherapy — and the gift of life — from Spain's wonder doc.

"It's a miracle," said the child's happy mother, Dolores Delgado Sevilla, of Toledo, Spain, in an interview with The Weekly World News. "We never expected the treatment to be so successful.

"When doctors told us Carmelo had cancer he was just a little boy. We were devastated. My husband refused to believe it.

"Carmelo's immunotherapy began in May of 1977 and it has been a spectacular success.

"He had treatments every six months, but the trips to Madrid were a small price to pay for Carmelo's life.

"Today, Carmelo doesn't even know he had cancer. All he has is a scar on his scalp."

MAN POSING AS SPACE ALIEN CONNED GALS INTO SEX!

Dozens of love-crazed women suckered by 'extraterrestrial' romeo, say cops

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Special correspondent

Clever accountant Luis Camargo seduced scores of gullible gals — by dressing up in a shiny green costume and convincing them that he was a space alien!

The cosmic con artist was arrested in August 1991, and convicted of statutory rape after the parents of a 14-year-old girl complained he had promised the teen a trip in his spaceship if she had sex with him. But for several years before that he had preyed upon the young — and the stupid — to enjoy their sexual favors, police say.

"He was just so cute," said a typical victim, 23-year-old secretary Andrea Durano.

"He was all green and everything and I was just so excited to be with a real space alien."

The 43-year-old man now faces three additional counts of statutory rape and could be sentenced to up to 40 years in prison, according to police in Bogota, Colombia.

Luis Camargo

"He had girlfriends of all ages, but he really scored with the naive ones and the young ones because they were the most likely to believe his story," said police Detective Ignacio de Palma.

"They honestly thought that if they pleased him, he would take them on trips to distant planets."

Camargo in real life was a lonely bachelor who had wooed but lost countless girls. In desperation, he had thought up the idea of fooling women into being his lovers.

The man designed himself a spacesuit out of glittery green cloth and made a face mask out of flesh-like green plastic.

Then he donned his outfit and lurked in a suburban park, surprising his victims on lonely pathways.

"He told me that I had discovered his secret mission to Earth and that it was very important that I not betray him," said another victim, Maria Delgado, 18. "He said he was an observer from the planet Zonda sent here to try to prevent the world from involvement in a terrifying war.

"He said he had his headquarters nearby and said he'd let me be one of his assistants.

"After a while he began suggesting we have sex and promising to take me for a ride in outer space. I just thought it great line, and I took it hook, line and sinker," she said.

Police say they can prove Camargo bedded down at least 25 young women, ranging in age from 13 to 34 and they

"HE HAD A GREAT line, and we took it hook, line and sinker," says Maria Delgado, left, as she and fellow victim Andrea Durano explain how a phony space alien's promises swept them off their feet.

Mom strip-searched & thrown in jail — for feeding a stray cat!

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

Animal lover Doris Welch was strip-searched and thrown in the slammer for five hours like a common criminal — because her kids fed a stray cat.

"I shouldn't have been arrested in the first place," said the hard-working mother of two. "Hopefully, this won't happen again to anyone."

The kindhearted woman's problems began in 1989 when a stray cat wandered into her Clearwater, Fla., neighborhood and her children fed it.

Animal control officers said if she or her children fed the animal, she would be responsible for its shots and license. When Doris didn't comply within 72 hours, they gave her a ticket.

The law-abiding lady got the cat, which she named Scat, licensed the next day. Two weeks later, Scat was struck and killed by a car.

Doris forgot all about the ticket until a deputy stopped her two years later for allegedly running a red light. When he checked her name in the crime computer, out popped a two-year-old warrant for her arrest on the old ticket.

The distraught mom wasn't given a traffic ticket, but she was taken to jail and locked up for five hours on the old warrant. Doris said she was strip-searched. The sheriff's office said she wasn't.

Prosecutors later dropped the two-year-old charge.

"I was treated like a common criminal. It was embarrassing to have my neighbors see me being led from my house by police officers and taken to jail," Doris said.

"I had to explain to the neighbors that it was over a cat license, but you wonder if they think I'm just making it up.

"It was a frightening experience for me and for my two sons," she said.

"You can imagine the panic in their eyes when I told them the police were taking me to jail."

Cops treated kindhearted animal lover like a vicious criminal!

Voters dump kissin' sheriff

They drew the line when he started smoochin' his male deputies in public

By JACK ALEXANDER/ Staff writer

A strange-acting southern sheriff lost a bid for re-election because he went around kissing his deputies in public — his male deputies!

Sheriff Charles Sturdivant claims he was just joking around, trying to lighten up the office and boost morale. His critics say the sheriff has made his department the laughingstock of the Shenandoah Valley.

"The other day, there was an incident where two deputies were having breakfast, and these construction workers were blowing kisses at them," Investigator John Hoover said.

The deputies didn't appreciate their boss giving them a peck on the cheek whenever he felt like it, but there wasn't much they could do about it, Hoover said.

"I don't beat my wife. I don't get drunk and I'm not gay," Sheriff Sturdivant once said at a political rally.

But the kissing sheriff from Winchester, Va., doesn't limit his special attention to male deputies. A few of the women who work for him complained that he has made sexual comments about the way they dress.

Sixteen of the sheriff's 59 employees, who claimed to represent 20 other workers, recently held a press conference to detail the sheriff's offensive actions.

Six deputies admitted the sheriff had embarrassed them in public with his kisses.

"He didn't succeed with me," said Deputy John Heflin. "I pushed him away and his response was, 'Are you playing hard to get?'"

Captain Gil Barrington said the sheriff walked up to him in a restaurant and kissed him on the forehead.

Two female secretaries said the sheriff and some of his employees "drop things on purpose so we'll have to bend over, and look down our shirts."

No sex discrimination complaints have been filed against Sturdivant.

The kissing sheriff contends his deputies don't understand his sense of humor. The kisses are just his way of joking around, he said.

Democrat Robert Williamson, a former second in command under Sturdivant, defeated his old boss in a close election.

SMOOCHIN' LAWMAN Charles Sturdivant can't figure out what all the fuss is about — just because he ran around kissing all the guys.

Woman terrified by graveyard's ghosts!

SCREAMING voices call out from these tombstones to Alice Murdico, right, and her mother, Frances Ward.

Long-dead voices call me by my name, says gal!

By SHAWN DEENA
Staff writer

Alice Murdico's neighbors are dead — but their restless spirits won't leave her alone!

The resident of a trailer alongside Haril-Hester cemetery in Lincolntown, N.C., Alice, 33, said there are several ghosts haunting the graveyard.

One of them even knows her name.

"She had long black hair and a white gown and she was motioning to me," she said. "She was saying, 'Alice, Alice.' "

Alice said she was in her mobile home one night when she heard the eerie voice.

ter I walked up to her, she started saying my name," Alice said.

The spooked miss believes the ghostly guest called her because of her name.

"There are three Alices buried in this graveyard, two of them were babies and one was a 40-year-old woman, and maybe it's one of them."

Alice wishes she had a different name.

"I wouldn't mind having another name right now," she said. "I wish that ghost would stay in her grave and leave me alone."

And then there's the guy who pops out of his grave.

Frances Ward, Alice's mother, saw a man jump out in front of nobody seems to believes me though."

There's also the vanishing cats.

Frances said there was a grave that cats used to go into but there was no hole there. Alice said she's seen it.

"There's just nothing there. I don't know how they get in there."

Alice said she's only scared sometimes.

"Sometimes I can walk through there at 2 or 3 in the morning and feel just fine and other times I just get real scared."

Alice, who has lived in the

JEFF after his close encounter.

That crazy porpoise was determined to have its way with me!

I was attacked by a sexy dolphin!

DIVER Jeff Anderson points out the area off a Southern California beach where he was attacked by love-sick dolphin.

By SCOTTY PAUL
Correspondent

A husky scuba diver says he barely escaped being raped during a terrifying attack by a sex-crazed bottle-nosed dolphin.

"There were four of them. They bounced me around like a rubber ball," said Jeff Anderson, who weighs about 195. "I think they all wanted to have their way with me."

Anderson and two friends were diving in the Pacific phins approached them."We thought they were just being playful," Anderson said. "One of them bumped me gently a couple of times. But then the bumping gradually got rougher," Jeff said.

The sex-crazed dolphin was making weird sounds that almost sounded human as he knocked the frantic diver deeper and deeper under water. The other dolphins swam around them in circles like sharks in a food frenzy, Jeff added.

"I was was out of control and lying on the bottom about five minutes and I couldn't move. He was too overpowering. I never felt so helpless in my life," Jeff said.

"He was really excited and still making that strange sound that I found out later was a mating call. My buddies had been trying to push the dolphin off me, but they were no match for the excited creature."

Jeff's friends were able to free him from the sex-crazed porpoise after a desperate struggle. They grabbed him by the arms and pulled him followed them all the way back to shore.

"I had less than five minutes' air supply left when they dragged me onto the beach," Jeff said.

"I really thought I would run out of air and drown while being raped by a dolphin. Wouldn't that have been something for my parents to live with?"

The frightened diver was examined by a doctor, who found no injuries except to Jeff's pride.

"It was a scary experience, but it could have been to get into the act," he said. An expert said dolphins will get an erection when they are excited or happy. And when that happens during mating season, look out.

The expert added that it is very rare for a dolphin to attack humans, but it has happened.

"Now I know how frightening it is to a woman being overpowered by a man in a sexual attack," Jeff said.

"I've been the butt of a lot of jokes since it happened, if you'll pardon the expression."

Study reveals: Vitamins make kids smarter!

Kids who popped vitamin pills for three months got smarter, according to a startling school experiment.

The amazing results came from a test run by science teacher Gwilym Roberts of Wrexham, England.

Roberts was fed up with the terrible eating habits exhibited by most of his kids, so he set out to find if vitamin supplements could help his students learn. The teacher divided 30 students into three groups: One group got vitamin pills, one got dummy pills and one got no pills.

After just three months, the IQ test scores of the vitamin poppers went through the roof. They showed an average increase of 6.4 points. And two girls in the group gained 15 points on their scores.

"This test raises the important question of whether children who normally don't do well in school would benefit from regular diet supplements," explained Roberts.

And the company that supplied the pills reports being flooded with requests for the multivitamins.

"Naturally, we are pleased with the results," said a company spokesman.

"It's just common sense that children will perform better if they are getting all the goodness they need every day.

"Ever since the trials ended, we've been receiving requests for packs of our vitamins and mineral supplements from parents and we're working full-time to send them off."

Buck-toothed gal sells her home to buy new choppers

By BEATRICE DEXTER, Correspondent

Buck-toothed bookkeeper Andrea Taylor is selling her house to buy a dream — a new set of choppers to replace the mixed-up mouthful that ruins her looks.

"I know some people think that's a stupid reason to sell my house, but hey, I've only got one life to live, and I want to live it looking my best."

Andrea says she decided to ditch the home she's had for five years after dentists told her she'd need $5,000 to replace her teeth. The four pretty face. But her insurance company refuses to pay for the extensive dental work needed to replace them.

Determined to go ahead with the work, she put her three-bedroom house on the market.

"The insurance company told me if it was just for cosmetic reasons they weren't going to go for it," Andrea recalls. "I was so depressed. through the rest of my life looking like Bugs Bunny. I could sacrifice a little to get what I wanted. I could give up the security and comfort of my home for the excitement and romance of a whole new face!"

Andrea says she can't afford the dental work because she doesn't earn enough to pay for it and support herself and her two sons, Nick, 8, and Tommie, 7. has — seems logical. And although friends and relatives have criticized her decision, she is determined to go ahead.

"They say I ought to hold onto my house because it's my kids' home and an important investment," Andrea says. "But with new looks, I might marry a good man who earns a nice salary and can help support us.

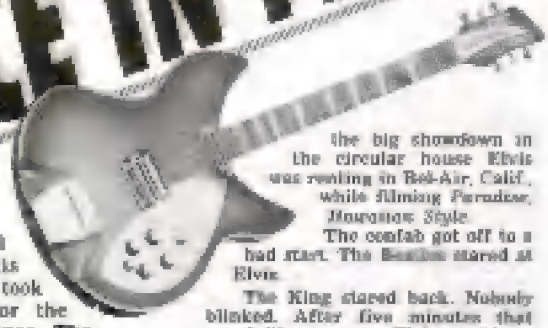
KING'S NO. 1 FAN: Paul, John, George and Ringo jumped at the chance to meet their idol . . . Elvis.

WORLD'S HOTTEST GOSSIP

By JOHN HANNON

Are you ready for rock's greatest hit?

SECRET ELVIS–BEATLES TAPE TO SURFACE IN 1992!



The rock summit conference of all time took place the historic night of August 27, 1965 — The Beatles met Elvis in a top secret sit-down and recorded a song still missing to this day!

The road to the summit was a rocky one. At first The King refused point-blank to see the Fab Four.

"Hell, I don't want to meet them sons o' bitches!" Elvis exploded in 1964 to Colonel Tom Parker, his manager-guru. It took almost a year for the Colonel to convince The King that it would be a cool thing for him to grant the mop-tops an audience.

"Okay, okay," said The King. "But they're going to have to come up here to the house!" So the stage was set for the big showdown in the circular house Elvis was renting in Bel-Air, Calif., while filming Paradise, Hawaiian Style.

The confab got off to a bad start. The Beatles stared at Elvis.

The King stared back. Nobody blinked. After five minutes that seemed like an eon, Elvis could no longer bear the silence. "Well, look, if you damn guys are gonna sit here and stare at me all night, I'm gonna go to bed! Let's call it a night!

"I didn't mean for this to be like a thing — the subjects call on The King

TALKER: Penn

Sean Penn traded autographs with a mass murderer!

When Hollyweird's loosest cannon, Sean Penn, wound up doing 32 days in an L.A. slammer for violation of probation in 1987, the bad boy never expected to meet the baddest of bad boys — the diabolical Night Stalker, Richard Ramirez!

"Ramirez and I had to take showers at the same time a lot, because we were both high-priority inmates, because of our high profiles," says Penn. "Ramirez asked for my autograph once. 'I'll give you mine if you give me yours.'"

Penn told the maniacal serial killer, a friendly guard gave them permission to trade 'graphs.

"Dear Sean: Stay tough and hit 'em again. Richard Ramirez, 666," was the encouraging note from the Night Stalker.

"It included a pentagram and a very good illustration of his view of the Devil," says Penn. But Sean's reply cracked up the crazy killer.

"Dear Richard: It's impossible to be incarcerated and not feel a kinship with your fellow inmates. Well, Richard, I've done the impossible. I feel absolutely no kinship with you." Penn wrote.

STALKER: Ramirez

The King and The Fab Four belted out 'Amazing Grace!'

SUSPICIOUS MIND: Elvis had to be coaxed by his manager, Tom Parker, into meeting the mop-top quartet.

— or something like that! I just thought we'd sit and talk. We can talk about some music and maybe play a little, jam a little." The word "jam" jump-started The Beatles.

"God," they cried in unison, "we'd love to play with you!" And so "the boys" got down with "the boy" — the term Col. Parker always used when referring to Elvis.

The high point of the super session was a stunning version of Amazing Grace with Elvis playing bass guitar.

"Coming along quite promising on bass, Elvis," said Paul, encouraging The King. The summit ended with everyone feeling swell — but no one knows what happened to the only song The Beatles ever made with Elvis.

One member of the Memphis Mafia believes the man who called The King "the boy" just might know where the sacred music is.

A Geneva mother accidentally discovers the secret to losing weight without dieting

A simple "trick" helped her to lose 6 pounds a week

You too, she says, can easily succeed without medication or exercise. And full details are all yours FREE.*

GENEVA - There are many methods and diets that are more or less successful in helping you to lose weight. But do you know anyone who has lost all those excess pounds, at a rate of 6 pounds a week, by eating normally and without dieting, using medication or exercising?

I do. Mrs. Danielle Chevalier, a Geneva mother, did it. Her secret? She discovered it by accident.

I interviewed Mrs. Chevalier to find out her secret.

Question – Mrs. Chevalier, tell me how you did it?

Answer – Like many other women, I gain weight very easily. When I found out that this weight gain was unhealthy and that I was becoming less attractive to my husband, I began to worry.

I tried everything from starvation diets to cutting down on food but this only made me edgy and run-down and the few pounds I had lost in 3 months, I gained back in 3 days.

One day, I read in a homeopathy book, where a doctor stated that anyone could lose weight easily and without being deprived of food. His advice was so simple that, at first, I didn't believe it.

Question – But you tried it anyway?

Answer – Yes, but later on. Exactly 5 days after I tried it, I fit into a pair of pants that I hadn't been able to wear in a long time. I told my friends about it. They all laughed. They didn't believe me when I told them that I wasn't on any diet and that I could eat as much as I liked.

Question – And you continued

Answer – 18 pounds in all. Look at me now. I feel better, my husband finds me attractive and my children are proud of me.

Question – Can your "secret" work for other women?

Answer – Many of my friends did the same thing I did. They lost 5 to 6 pounds a week.

Question – Can you summarize your "secret"?

Answer – Certainly. You can get a full, detailed "Discovery Summary" by mail, free with no obligation to buy anything.

- Everyone can use it instantly.
- It doesn't include any medication, exercise or diet.
- It's pleasant, natural and good for your health.
- It helps the digestion (that's one of the reasons it helps to lose weight).
- It works at the restaurant or while traveling.
- No restrictions! You can eat pasta, cakes, candies, drink wine or alcohol. And you still lose 5 to 6 pounds a week!

Question – Does that mean that nutrition is not important?

Answer – Well, yes. For example, I learned that certain foods worked like medicine but without the inconveniences. I talk about that in my report. It's very important. I also talk about a lot of other things that I have learned through personal experience and which will be profitable to anyone who needs to Question – How much does your "Discovery Summary" cost?

Answer – Nothing. When I was overweight, I would have given a fortune to find out how to lose weight while eating and drinking as well. But my "Discovery Summary" doesn't even cost a cent. It's totally free and available to anyone who asks for it. That's great, isn't it?

Send for Danielle Chevalier's "Discovery Summary" now!

You'll see why you can lose at least 4 pounds a week until you reach your ideal weight with absolutely no cost-risk to you. She'll even give you her 90-day written "success guarantee." Complete details are given in her free "Discovery Summary."

Dad's re-enactment of legendary William Tell stunt ends in son's death!

"Don't die Roger. Please don't die." With those heart-wrenching words archer Kurt Borer revealed some of the agony he felt when he accidentally killed his 8-year-old son with an arrow that was supposed to pierce an apple that was perched on top of the boy's head. The tragic drama unfolded while the father and son team were re-creating a feat made famous by William Tell, the legendary Swiss archer who successfully shot an apple off his own son's head in the 14th century. Borer had performed the feat dozens of times with his son in practice and at medieval fairs. But a freak gust of wind pushed the arrow off the mark during a November 3 exhibition in Geneva, Switzerland, causing it to hit the boy squarely in the head. Witnesses said Borer cradled the dying boy in his arms and sobbed while waiting for help. Police called the boy's death "a tragic accident" and said no charges will be filed.

Family finds killer's corpse in victim's casket!

Grief-stricken relatives of a murdered father of two were horrified when they looked in his coffin at the funeral home — and there was the killer's corpse.

As if that wasn't weird enough, he was laid out in the victim's brand-new suit.

Bovey Sheng Chang, 38, his wife, Li Lee, 33, and their two young sons were gunned down in their Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, home by Li Lee's jealous ex-boyfriend, who then blew his brains out.

The bizarre blunder was blamed on Vancouver General Hospital, which sent the wrong body from the morgue to the funeral home.

Language difficulties helped cause the mix-up. None of Chang's heartbroken relatives spoke much English, Ray Loewen, mortuary spokesman, said. Hospital records revealed the name spellings given to the funeral home by Chang's brother differed from the names in hospital records.

"We haven't released the killer's name because we are having trouble contacting his next of kin," Police Officer Gordon Elias said. "We think he may have used more than one name."

But cops believe the killer's surname is similar to the victim's.

"As a result, the hospital released the wrong body to us," Loewen said.

Hospital spokesman Michelle Perrault said the hospital regrets the goof.

"It must be very upsetting for the family," she said.

Today's Little Leaguers are pampered wimps, says Ed

MY AMERICA
By ED ANGER

Fancy new pump-up glove has Babe Ruth twirling in his grave!

BASEBALL'S greatest player, Babe Ruth.

I'm madder than Babe Ruth with a busted bat over a new baseball glove that pumps up with air, for crying out loud!

I was pig-biting mad when they hoodwinked kids into thinking they had to buy $100 pump-up sneakers just to play basketball. But this nincompoop baseball mutt has the metal plate in my head hotter than a firecracker.

When I was a kid we played baseball the old-fashioned way — with our bare hands. And that included the catcher, by jiminey. We used a broomstick for a bat and drew the bases in the dirt with twigs.

Why do you think all those old ballplayers like Ty Cobb, Lou Gehrig, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays were so great — because they learned the game without all these fancy-schmancy bats and gloves, that's why.

Now they've even got a baseball shoe with eight different sets of spikes for different playing conditions. The Babe must be twirling in his grave, especially since he learned to play the game barefooted.

Let's face it. Today's Little Leaguers are a bunch of pampered pansies with all these space-age baseball gizmos. What's next? Bats that hit the ball for 'em?

If my kid had ever asked for one of these pump-up gloves, I'd have made him play softball with the girls, for Pete's sake.

And another thing. Why in hell do these sissy gloves have plastic gel pads in the palms? To keep these sniveling little wimps from stinging their hands when they catch a line drive or high pop up, that's why.

And that, baseball fans, makes yours truly want to throw up in his popcorn. No wonder America's kids are a bunch of crybabies. If my grandson Teddy EVER asks me for a hundred smackers for one of these pump-up pansy gloves he'll get a glove all right — a boxing glove right up side the head.

FANCY-SCHMANCY baseball gloves that pump up full of air when you press a button are turning America's kids into pampered wimps, says Ed.

How to live in peace with your dingbat neighbors!

If your neighbor plays his stereo loud when you're trying to sleep or his yappy dog is driving you nuts, tell him it bothers you — in a nice way, says an expert.

People don't talk to their neighbors as much as they once did, says University of Utah professor Richard Rieke.

Here are a few tips from Dr. Rieke and Salt Lake City mediator Marcella L. Keck that will help you deal with your neighbors:

Call him on the phone and ask if there is a time you can talk.

Be calm. Don't talk to him when you are angry.

Be considerate. Don't talk to him the minute he gets home from work. Give him time to relax, change clothes and eat dinner.

Don't let problems build. Resolve them when they are small.

Don't call the cops at the drop of a hat. That will only make him angry.

If everything else fails, call an impartial mediator.

Ten jobs that are GUARANTEED to give you sore feet!

If you drag home foot-sore and weary after a day's work, it's not surprising — the average person who works on his tootsies walks an amazing 1,204 miles a year!

In a study of "foot-intensive" jobs, Scholl, Inc., found some workers walk as much as 2,491 miles a year, with messengers, store clerks and factory workers high up on the list. Here are the jobs that are hardest on the feet, with the average daily mileage and projected mileage per year based on a 48-week work year:

1. Messengers, 10.3 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 2,491.
2. Factory workers, 9.3 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 2,227.
3. Commodities runners, 6.7 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,618.
4. Store clerks, 6.6 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,617.
5. Mail carriers, 6.5 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,565.
6. Food servers, 6.3 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,512.
7. Nurses, 5.4 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,305.
8. Real estate sales agents, 5.0 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,204.
9. Hairstylists, 4.9 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,195.
10. Hotel employees average 4.7 miles a day. Yearly mileage, 1,128.

THESE PEOPLE WON & WON

Listen to them. They left their bad luck forever. These are real testimonies. Some of them are incredible:

AT THE HIPPODROME

Mr. Richard L., of Brooklyn:

". . . and then I won a lot of money. And we could pay for the surgery of my son. I always carry with me The Golden Clover."

A WISHED TRAVEL

Mrs. Anne K., of Los Angeles

"I didn't believe in these things. We went so much to the Lotto that now we go to Europe every year."

FRESH MONEY

Mrs. Kim H., of Washington DC:

"I asked my husband many times in order The Clover. It was magical. The money would never last us until the end of the month. Now we are almost millionaires, because we won money at the Casino many times."

A GOOD JOB

Mrs. Christine R., of Miami:

"My daughter had been unemployed for a whole year. She ordered The Clover and she got a job with an excellent monthly salary. She is so happy now. Thanks to you."

THE WOMAN OF MY DREAMS

Mr. Charles A., of Phoenix:

"I found the woman that I always was looking for. Thanks to you and The Clover. I recommend it."

MY OWN BUSINESS, FINALLY

Mrs. Angela E., of Michigan:

"I always dreamed of having my own restaurant. I am a good cook. Now I have it because I inherited a lot of money. Thanks to The Clover."

YOUR LIFE CAN BE A NEW ONE

What the Four-Leaf and 33 wishes Clover made for these people can do for you too. You don't have to believe in these things, but you have to admit that there is something in it. Because The Clover has a magnetic and powerful irradiation which reactivates the power of clairvoyance that is hidden in each one of us.

Think then that all your unachieved dreams can become true. But the most incredible of this is the following: That you can return it if your biggest and most wanted wishes do not become true after 3 months of having received it. Why do we do this? Simply because we are convinced that you will have good luck. A lot of good luck. Perhaps the luck that you never imagine to have. We are so sure that we give you this guarantee of return. You may return it and we give you your money back. What did you lose? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Because if it works for you, you win. If it doesn't work for you, you also win because you get your money back. You are protected. But we are sure that you will not return The Golden Clover. Good luck will be with you.

That is why we suggest you to send your order now. Don't wait any time. You will be very pleased when you receive it. Because your life will change as if by magic. In the envelope you will find The Clover and The Secret Manual to Make Your Wishes Come True. That is, how to make the luck wishes, the care you have to give it. Where to carry it. Everything is explained there step-by-step.

Think that we appeal to such things for good luck only once in our lives. These things cannot be bought every day, like food. It is just once in your lifetime. Please yourself. You don't lose anything. Don't you think it would be silly to let this opportunity of changing your life get away?

'Home Alone' flick turns tykes into little terrors!

Two pint-sized vandals turn upset a neighbor's house and plugged the toilets — just like a scene they saw in the movie Home Alone.

The 8-year-old brothers ransacked the house of their Omaha, Neb., neighbors while the family was away because they saw bad guys do it in the movie.

They splattered paint on the walls, urinated on the carpet and stole $1,500 in valuables.

Cops nabbed the rambunctious runts running from the house.

Torched beauty scrawls killer's name on her deathbed

By SUSAN JIMISON
Staff writer

Tragic Tammy Lee Moore died in agony after her jealous husband set her on fire — but before she took her last breath she saw that justice was done by revealing her killer to police.

The courageous Oklahoma City blonde traced out the name of her husband with her finger on her bed sheet in the hospital burn center, laying the foundation for a murder trial that sent Rex Moore, 38, to jail.

"Rex poured gas on me... I was wrapped in a blanket," scrawled the dying woman, whose terrible injuries made it impossible for her to speak.

Forty hours after the horrifying attack, mother-of-two Tammy died from burns over 100 percent of her body. Her husband of 11 years was convicted of arson and first-degree murder.

"They'd had marital problems and Tammy was getting ready to move out," said Assistant District Attorney Dan Deason, who tried the case against Moore. "He told her he'd never let her walk out. The evidence showed that this was grossly premeditated murder."

According to Deason, the couple's 10-year marriage was coming apart at the seams and Moore didn't stay one last night in the family home with him — and plotted to burn her to death.

After taking their son and daughter to school the following morning, Moore returned home to his wife and put his plan into action. While she slept in her bed, Moore apparently doused his wife with gasoline and lit a match, Deason said.

"He told police that after he came home he looked up and all of a sudden his wife was walking toward him on fire," Deason said. "He said he assumed she'd committed suicide."

But thanks to Tammy's heroic efforts, Moore was eventually charged in her death. After just 57 minutes of deliberation, the jury in his trial found him guilty. The horrifying case is closed but searing memories remain for many.

"It is hard to conceive of that much hatred," said Deason after the verdict in Moore's trial was in. "What he did was cruel, inhuman

It's a good bet gamblers are boozers too

If you're a gambler then odds are you're an alcoholic and a drug addict too.

A new study from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey reveals that one quarter of compulsive gamblers also drink and take drugs.

And it runs in the family, say the researchers.

The study also showed that gamblers are related to other gamblers.

Blind boy sees Santa

A Christmas photo you'll never forget

Having come into the world blind, little Timmy Collins has had to rely on a deep-rooted belief that just because he can't see something doesn't mean it doesn't exist.

Yet most sightless children really do have a way to picture the beautiful things that surround their world of darkness, as we can see in this heartwarming photo of Timmy "seeing" Santa with his fingers.

Timmy is 8 years old, the same age that Virginia O'Hanlon was when, in 1897, she made a plea for reassurance in a letter to The New York Sun newspaper. The moving reply from editor Francis Pharcellus Church remains a Christmas treasure that will live as long as there is love and innocence in the hearts of children. Here's Virginia's letter and Church's response:

"Dear Editor:

"I am 8 years old.

"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

"Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.'

"Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?

"Virginia O'Hanlon,
115 West 95th Street"

Dear Virginia,

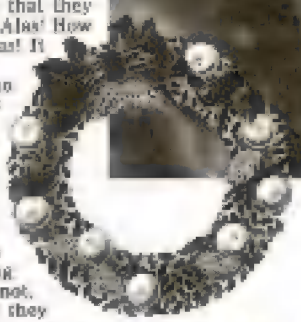
Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little.

In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias.

There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there.



the world. You tear apart the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart.

Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

SIGHTLESS Timmy Collins was able to "see" Santa Claus with his fingers when the jolly fat man with the snow white beard paid a visit to a hospital in Chicago, Ill.

Eight easy tricks to avoid holiday hangovers!

If you party too much and regret it later, you could use a few words of advice from an expert.

Richard Basini has just written a book entitled How to Cut Down Your Social Drinking (Putnam, $19.95) and it's crammed with tips on how to control your tippling.

"Most people are all-American drinkers who take anything that is handed to them in a social situation," Basini said. "What's needed is a drinking diet — you need to set controls for yourself. When you have a chef salad and you finish it, the waiter doesn't hand you another one, but when it comes to drinking they do. People need to become enlightened social drinkers, and my book tells them how to."

- Arrive at cocktail parties late and leave early.
- With a group always order your drink first and set the tone for lighter or alcohol-free beverages.
- Quench your thirst with water before you start drinking.
- Find low-alcohol or non-alcohol alternatives to heavier booze.
- Get to know your bartender. Tell him you want light drinks.
- Be sure to tailor your drinking to the situation. You can let your hair down with your buddies, but not if you're attempting to impress anyone.
- Never have a nightcap. That's a foolish drink.

Among the benefits of controlling your drinking are losing weight, saving money and having a better sex life, says Basini.

My wife's a hot pepper on the dance floor but a cold fish in the bedroom!

Dear Dotti: My wife is one of the sexiest women alive and when we go out dancing, which is often, she literally SMOKES on the dance floor. Guys stand around watching with their mouths open and though many women have tried, I've never seen a female who can hold a candle to her. As a normal, red-blooded American male I get extremely excited while dancing with my wife. But when I try to capitalize on that excitement after we get home she automatically turns into a cold fish.

As it stands we make love about once a month and snuggling with her is like snuggling with a chunk of ice. I don't think I'm being unreasonable, I just want what any man would. This is driving me crazy, Dotti. What should I do? — Denied in Boston

Dear Denied: I get a lot of bone-brained letters but this one absolutely takes the cake. If you really want to harness your wife's sexual energy, pinhead, make love BEFORE you go out!

Confidential

Dear Crushed Kid in Clay City: Your math teacher is an idiot — and you can tell her I said so!

Dear Puzzled in Udell: If you really want to know what a pinhead is look in a mirror!

Dear Embarrassed in Garden Valley: That's what you get for doing deep knee bends in a micro-mini!

Dear Wondering in Nectar: Liz Taylor, Brooke Shields, Morgan Fairchild — and me!

Dear Devastated in Oakdale Heights: I don't care what your husband says — anybody who polishes off two six-packs a night is an alcoholic!

Dear Shy in Chama: If you want a man so bad why don't you go out and find one?

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462

I can't get the message to my misguided mailman!

Dear Dotti: The mailman in my neighborhood keeps putting my letters in a neighbor's mailbox and she literally has to trudge over to my house every damn day to give it to me. I called the post office and needless to say the clerk I spoke to treated me like dirt. What the hell can I do, Dotti? — Furious in Cedarville

Dear Furious: If the postal clerk you spoke to didn't give you any satisfaction call the postmaster himself. Clerks and underlings don't have the power to do anything, my friend. When you've got trouble of any kind, go straight to the top!

I used to not like you but now I see the light!

Dear Dotti: I've read your column for years now and while I used to think that you were rude, I now see the wisdom of your ways. If you're in my neighborhood, stop by for dinner. I'll treat you like the queen you are. — Fan in Illinois

Dear Fan: I'll definitely drop by. By the way, I like my martinis dry, steaks rare and if lobster's on the menu, a 2-pounder with drawn butter will do just fine!

Should I be fired for peeking in the ladies' room?

Dear Dotti: You're not going to believe this but my boss fired me because I drilled a hole in the wall behind our filing cabinets at work so I could see into the ladies' rest room. It was just a prank but when he found out about it he axed me so fast it made my head spin. Was the boss right to fire me — or wrong? — Wondering in Baltimore

Dear Wondering: I enjoy a practical joke as much as anybody but you clearly went too far. You should have told the boss your plan BEFORE you drilled the hole. After all, he's entitled to some fun!

Ask the Countess

Is my nasty husband happy in the afterlife?

Dear Countess: My husband died earlier this year and I don't mind telling you that there are times when I am relieved that he is gone. We never got along very well and fought continuously for 53 years. Please tell me whether he is safe and secure in the afterlife, Countess. I'm just curious as to how he is being treated. — Wondering in Philadelphia

Dear Wondering: Your hateful husband is doing very well in the afterlife. But he's prepared, he promises to visit you in spirit and tell you so himself before the week is out!

three miscarriages in the past three years and doctors tell me I'll never be able to have a healthy baby. My husband and I want at least one child to make our lives complete. Are the doctors right? Please give us some good news if you can. — Desperate in Dexterville

Dear Desperate: Your crystal ball tells me that you'll never give birth to a child of your own but you will have children to make your life complete. I see you adopting four beautiful, loving children in the years to come — one boy and three girls!

Dear Countess: My husband and I have the same dream every single night. We both dream of a past life in which we were Queen Elizabeth I. We're smart enough to know that both of us couldn't have been one person, Countess. Can you help us? What do our dreams mean? — Puzzled in Dexterville

Dear Puzzled: Your crystal ball tells me that you're both right about this, my dear, but you and your husband were, in fact, Queen Elizabeth I. The life force that created her later split up, enabling two life-forces to exist instead of only one!

PERSONAL TO . . .

Anxious in Green Lake: Your son will pass his driving test, but will need three tries.

Saddened in Haddix: Your grandmother will live to be at least 100 — and still be riding her bicycle.

Worried in Midland: Not if you marry his daughter, but you better hurry.

DEADLY FOG HEADED FOR U.S.

By MICKEY McGUIRE/Special correspondent

A poisonous fog bank spawned in Ecuador has killed hundreds of men, women and children in a slow, deadly drift across South America and experts have issued a grim warning — it's headed straight for the U.S.!

17-mile-wide cloud kills hundreds in South America!

For almost a month, the lethal fog has cut a 17-mile-wide swath through dozens of remote jungle villages, leaving in its wake the bodies of victims who never knew what hit them.

"This is a disaster of colossal proportions," declared Humberto Ruiz, a scientist recruited by the government to find a way to dissolve the killer cloud.

"So far, we have no idea what to do. If we fail to find a way to dissipate the fog, the calamity will be infinitely greater than the mind can imagine.

"But at this point, we don't know where the fog came from or what its poisonous components are. What we do know is one whiff will kill a man in his tracks."

Ruiz said the cloud is about to drift into Colombia and is expected to move into Central America in about three weeks. He said the cloud will then either move through Mexico to California or travel across the Gulf of Mexico to Northern Florida or one of the other Gulf states.

"But no matter which way the winds carry it, hundreds of thousands of innocent people will drop like flies," Ruiz said. "And how can we warn them?

"We don't know the course it will take."

MAP shows direction of 17-mile-wide killer fog cloud experts warn is heading toward the U.S.

The two began dating while attending a rural high school near Columbia, S.C., and had dated twice a week for half a century ever since.

"I was ready to marry Reggie right out of high school, but his father died and his mother kept Reggie tied to her apron strings," said Peggy.

The sheepish son did everything for his beloved mom.

He ran the errands, cleaned the house, did all the repair work and even cooked most of the meals on weekends.

"My darling Reggie lived her life instead of his own while our life together was put on hold," said Peggy. "And his domineering mother was selfish enough to let it happen."

As the years rolled by, the lonely lovers took long walks, attended church socials, went to the movies and talked about the life that might have been.

times I wished his mother dead," Peggy said.

Next-door neighbor Frank Simmons said Reggie's mother, Irene Washburn, was a tyrannical, domineering woman who leaned on her "weak-kneed" son.

"I told Reggie many times he was wasting his life living with his mom, but he was devoted to that woman. And that devotion obviously was stronger than his love for Peggy," Simmons said.

But Reggie, 69, and Peggy got the opportunity they waited a lifetime for when Reggie's bossy mom suddenly died this October of a heart attack at 88.

"You can't imagine what it was like walking down the aisle beside my man," said Peggy. "And our wedding night was worth waiting for."

TYRANNICAL mom Irene Washburn refused to let go of wimpy son Reggie until she finally keeled over of a heart attack at the age of 88.

Terrorists devise horror-filled death for traitors...

FRIED ALIVE

IN A NECKLACE OF FIRE

Terrorists executed five suspected turncoats by the grisly death ritual known as the "necklace of fire" — in which a tire soaked in gasoline is hung around the helpless victim's neck and set ablaze.

Police said the horrible slayings seemed to be part drug-cartel groups in a bitter battle for control in Colombia.

But a source told The Weekly World News the killings were a typical "ritual murder."

who asked not to be identified for fear of retaliation.

"Some of the victims die from asphyxiation by choking on the acrid smoke of the tire. Usually, the poor man runs around screaming like a wounded chicken until finally he drops from exhaustion and pain and burns to death."

Police found the corpses on a desolate road outside victims were bunched together, the bubbling remains of tires around their necks.

They had also been covered by tires which acted as a funeral pyre. The fifth victim was off by himself. Police believe all five had been tried by a vigilante "people's court" and then executed for their crimes. The victims were burned too badly to be recognized.

FASCINATING PET FACTS

Small dogs live longer than large dogs. Puppies are unable to see, hear or smell at birth — and in ancient China, only the royal family was allowed to own Pekingese dogs!

That's some of the fascinating trivia animal expert Maria Gould has run across in her studies. Here's more:

● A pet's worst enemy, the flea, can leap up to 36 inches with ease. That's comparable to a man jumping over the Washington Monument.

● Thirty percent of all families own dogs. In households with children under age 13, fifty-six percent own them.

● In England, it's a crime to crop a dog's ears or dock its tail.

● A single female dog and her own offspring can produce more than 4,300 puppies in seven years.

● Those fancy haircuts poodles sport were designed for a reason. The dogs were once used as retrievers in cold water. Most of their fur was trimmed so they could swim faster, but the heavy fur was left around their joints to keep them from freezing.

● A staggering 3,500 dogs and cats are born in the U.S. every hour.

Now compare that to a paltry 400 humans born during the same 60 minutes.

● A survey shows that 33 percent of dogs sleep in their owners' bedrooms.

● Dogs are more afraid of an open hand than a closed fist because pet owners often slap puppies, but rarely punch them.

Hate your job? — TRY LAUGHING!

Clowning around at work is no joking matter — there's not enough of it!

According to humor experts in New York, the workplace is too serious.

They suggest several ways to lighten the load:

● Give your co-workers a standing ovation whenever they ask for one.

● Reward the best excuse for being late by paying the worker's rent for a month.

● Ban coats and ties and offer a rack of loud Hawaiian shirts instead.

SEX TRIVIA

The more you know about sex, the better it gets, experts say — yet most of us know surprisingly little.

Here are a few fascinating facts about mankind's favorite pastime, nuggets of knowledge that will dazzle your friends.

● Male sexiness peaks in September, which means that fall is an excellent season for man-hunters.

● Eighty-two percent of all American women say they are happy in bed.

● And 95 percent admit that they initiate lovemaking from time to time.

● Zinc and vitamins A, B and E are essential for good sex.

● Work is more important than sex to career women, but male workaholics still put sex No. 1.

● Forty-five percent of married Americans have sex three times a week.

● The bad news: 10 percent of women have never had an orgasm. The good news: 10 percent of women always have an orgasm.

● Doctors and business executives rate good sex as an important ingredient in happiness. Secretaries, teachers and farmers put it far down the list.

● Among the Hollywood hunks Mel Gibson, Harrison Ford and Tom Cruise, fans consider Gibson to have the "most kissable lips."

● Slimming down can increase sexual appetite and gaining weight can cause it to decrease, experts say.

● Men and women who make love most often say "I love you" every day.

● Tanzania in Africa has an accredited sex college where young women who are "interested in new and modern ways to welcome rich men" can learn how to be femmes fatales.

● Raquel Welch had some ribs removed to give her a tinier waistline.

● The snuggler you hug, the sexier you are, according to studies. People who hug at arm's length are cold fish in bed.

● Former President Gerald Ford's birthday should make you think of sex because he was was born on July 14, National Nude Day.

● A good laugh is the best way to stimulate sexual desire.

● A recent poll declared the windy city of Chicago as the best place in America — for making love!

● You can lose your sex drive if you become deficient in the trace nutrient manganese.

● Maude Adams, Barbara Bach and Kim Basinger all starred in James Bond films and they all have something else in common — they all have posed nude for Playboy magazine.

● The average red-blooded American male prefers an Oriental gal as a bedmate, according to a Playboy survey.

● Sexual intercourse can burn more calories per minute than belly dancing or shoveling snow — eight calories!

SILVER-SCREEN SMOOCHER: Movie fans voted the famous lips of Tom Cruise "very kissable." But poor Tom lost out to Mel Gibson for the "best lips" title.

Men are sexiest in September!

A night of romance burns more calories than a day of shoveling snow!

KNOCKOUT BODY: Raquel Welch had ribs removed to make her look slimmer.

SEXIEST CITY: Chicago was voted No. 1 by lovers.

DAZZLING BEAUTIES from the Far East drive U.S. guys nuts, says a new survey.

Most American males prefer Oriental bedmates!

GIANT HOROSCOPE

FOR WEEK OF Mon., Dec. 23 – Sun., Dec. 29

By Countess Sophia Sabak

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Take it slow and easy!

Get your act together early in the week, so you can lie back and enjoy the good life on the weekend.

Someone will try to coax you into a financial move that won't increase your savings by a nickel. Show them the door!

You're due to bring in some big bucks by yourself with a lucky guess.

A casual meeting out on the street is the start of a wonderful new relationship. Don't be too shy to enjoy it!

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

Take the lead!

You want the world at your feet — and it's only what you deserve!

Focus on what you want life to give you.

Now's the time to make your dreams come true. Be confident, tell a few white lies if you must and the best will come to you.

Money coming your way from a family source you haven't paid any attention to in ages will make it easier for you to get where you belong.

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

A hunch pays off!

Your instinct about a loved one was right on the money. It's a relief that you were right. Now you can go on without a care!

You are going to be tempted to put some hard earned money on something that everyone else calls flighty. Give it some more thought, and if it's really going to make you happy, buy it!

Call six people who love you. You can make them feel wonderful!

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Listen to your heart for a change!

A second chance at romance is headed your way. A phone call from the one you adore will put sparks in that old engine — if you'll just let it.

A dream will show you where that item you hid months ago really is. You'll be relieved.

Money matters seem pretty sound now, so don't fuss if someone wants to splurge a little. A surprise bonus is coming your way, so your pockets won't be empty for long.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Make a fuss!

Do whatever's called for to get noticed. Once people see how good you are, the world is yours.

Let your heart rule your head when it comes to romance. Fussing with a loved one will get you exactly nowhere. Turn the tables and send a sentimental card. You'll love what you get in return!

Tell creditors you'll pay them later. Right now you want your cash ready for a once-in-a-lifetime deal.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Get set to say "yes!"

Being ready, willing and able could put you right in the money. A snap decision about how and where you live is going to be called for soon.

You handle risk taking well, so go for a life of good fortune!

Someone you haven't seen in a while is going to be back in the picture. Surprise them by acting glad to see them. This will give you the upper hand.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Hold your horses!

Take it slow and easy. Don't scare off someone by acting too sure of yourself. You'll be fine if you play it cool.

An unasked for loan from a friend is going to pull you out of a hole. This will give you time to get your budget working again, and from then on it'll be clear sailing financially.

Call someone you've been eyeing from a distance. They're longing for that phone to ring!

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Come down to earth!

Someone's waiting for you to get your head out of the clouds and notice them. This is a very romantic time for you if you just take hold of what's offered.

A new way of increasing your financial security is coming your way. You'll need to look sharp to take real advantage of it.

Use your good head for figures and you'll come out with a big bonus. Spend some of it on a big TV.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Get caught up on lost sleep!

Those money worries that make your nights sleepless will disappear when you put your catchy way with words to entering a big bucks contest. You can't help but win!

Good old-fashioned romance is going to take an unexpected direction.

Listen instead of talk, and you'll be thought of as a lover who's one in a million!

Look to an oldster for the solution to a silly problem.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Bank those pennies!

And watch them turn into dollars. Money in the bank is going to make you feel a lot more comfortable.

And slap your hand away if you're tempted to dip into your account on a whim, even a generous whim.

Don't be too slow to offer your love. Someone is waiting for it with their heart.

A special little keepsake could be just the thing to start the ball rolling — and keep it rolling.

If your birthday is this week . . .

Mon., Dec. 23 — Sun., Dec. 29

This is the year your most daring ambitions and dreams come true!

Your money situation improves nicely, and there's more than just a chance of some big bucks rolling in unexpectedly.

Love blossoms the way you've always wanted it to, and you and your mate renew vows. You'll be right on target all year when making romantic decisions.

This year you'll be happier than you

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

You're sailing on a cloud!

One good thing leads to another, as everything rolls smoothly along in your life. Keep the wheels greased!

A person you barely know is going to show you how hearts-and-flowers romance can be yours this week. When it happens you'll realize it was meant to be!

Sort through those things the family's been squirreling away. They're hiding a treasure just wait-

PISCES
Feb. 19-Mar. 20

The world is at your feet!

Your faith in yourself is making everything come out right.

That risk you took turns out to be a sure thing — and it's going to put a few bucks in your pocket as a reward.

Spend some time with someone who's on your wavelength. They've got something to tell you. The information will help you win over a younger loved one.

Coma wipes out four decades of victim's memory

OLDSTER THINKS IT'S 1952 — AND EISENHOWER IS RUNNING FOR PRESIDENT!

Accident victim Walter Nelson stunned his family when he awakened from a coma thinking the year was 1952 — and he was a young man again!

The Kidsgrove, England, retiree remembers everything clearly up until 1952 — but the years after that were wiped from his mind by a bump on the head in August when he was 68. He fell into a coma after the accident and woke up 10 weeks later, shortly before his 69th birthday.

"We tried to celebrate his birthday with him on November 4 and that's when we discovered he's living in another time," Nelson's wife Ena, 52, told The Weekly World News.

"He said, 'I'm not 69, I'm 29!' He was shocked and horrified when we told him this was 1991."

The bedridden accident victim, who injured his head in a fall from a speeding moped, thinks Dwight Eisenhower is running for President of the United States and Queen Elizabeth has just ascended the throne of England. For him, High Noon is the popular new movie and his 1947 Studebaker should be in fine condition.

He is also still marveling at the latest thrill in passenger flights — an astounding new aircraft called the jet.

"He thinks he should still be in Korea, where he was stationed during the war," Mrs. Nelson said. "He keeps talking about the boat that's going to take him home to England.

"He doesn't recognize his 29-year-old daughter Gillian and he doesn't recognize his 21-year-old son James.

"He doesn't even recognize me because I married him when he 45."

The former security guard's family has tried to jolt him into the present.

They showed him an old newspaper clip with a photo of him returning from the Korean War, but the grandfather of four ignored it.

"He looked at it, but he just wasn't interested," his wife said. "He just doesn't realize what's going on."

The bizarre coma case has fascinated Nelson's doctors, over the next two years or so. They expect that uninjured brain cells will take over the work of damaged cells.

Until then, Nelson lives in another era, 40 years behind everyone.

"It's pathetic to think of him unable to enjoy the comfort of his family because he doesn't

CONFUSED Walter Nelson thinks it's 1953 and Dwight Eisenhower is running for U.S. President. Nelson can't understand why his Studebaker isn't ready to take out for a spin.

Born with a tail & he's doing fine!

ZULKARNI bin Hamat's tail has grown to eight inches long. The afflicted youngster is in the arms of his father Mat Nok.

By RICK TRACY/Special correspondent

Parents of a newborn baby were stunned when they discovered he was different from other boys — because he had a tail.

Doctors at a hospital in Kampong, Thailand, decided to wait until the boy was a few months older before snipping off the tail, which measured about two inches at birth.

"It's only a minor birth defect that shouldn't cause him any discomfort for now. We don't expect it to grow as the boy grows," said an attending physician.

But the doctor was wrong. Little Zulkarni bin Hamat has just turned two years old and has a tail 8 inches long and growing.

His peasant parents live about 100 miles from Kampong and are too poor to afford the long trip back to the hospital.

"Many times I have would be too cruel," said the youngster's father, Mat Nok. "He's embarrassed to go outside and play. The children make fun of him . . . call him dog boy and try to grab his tail."

The family's dilemma may be solved soon. Government officials in the village where they live will transport the little boy free of charge to the Kampong hospital within the next 60 days and pay to have his tail clipped.

"As you might expect, his tail has caused great inconveniences as far as personal hygiene is concerned," Dr. Somsak Soodrak said. "Snipping off his tail is minor surgery. But we have to make sure it won't grow back. And that could involve more complicated surgery."

Wife offers $60,000 reward for return of runaway hubby — DEAD OR ALIVE!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Potbellied blowhard Cal Nashie was a cigar-chomping chiseler who sloshed down cheap scotch all day and lusted after the ladies all night while his weary wife Amy scrubbed floors to support their family.

'The creep cleaned out our bank account and ran off with a barmaid!'

But when creepy Cal ran away with a blonde barmaid and left his family high and dry, fed-up Amy flew into a rage and offered a $60,000 reward for his return — dead or alive!

And the outraged lady says the bounty still stands, even though cops have warned her she could be in a world of trouble if someone takes her up on the shocking offer.

"I'm really not worried about what's going to happen to me at this point," fumed the scorned scrubwoman. "I just want to get my hands on that scumbag husband of mine, and frankly I don't care if they bring him in kicking and screaming or just toss his dead body on my doorstep. Either way they'll get their money — I promise that.

"The bum didn't leave me a thing but the house we live in, but I'm prepared to give that up to pay the reward. That's how serious I am about all this."

Callous Cal, 38, had spent years loafing and loving behind Amy's back before finally skipping town with a curvaceous waitress — on his 17th wedding anniversary.

But patient Amy didn't hit the roof till she learned her hightailing hubby had forged her name at the bank and hit the road with their entire life savings.

"I put up with his loafing and cheating for all this time because I thought underneath it all he really loved me and the kids," the miffed mother of two told a reporter in Sydney, Australia.

"But when I learned he'd cleaned out our measly savings and left us with nothing but the clothes on our backs, that's when I knew how bad I wanted to get my hands on the jerk."

So infuriated Amy, 32, put up wanted posters all over town and took out classified ads in newspapers across Europe and Australia, inviting bounty hunters to take a head on her heartless hubby.

"I don't know if he's skipped the country or what," said the hopping-mad maid.

"All I know is, I want the fat slimeball back — dead or alive."

OUTRAGED Amy Nashie put up wanted posters after her husband Cal skipped town. "The bum didn't leave me a thing," says the angry housewife.

Gung-ho Japanese get sick when they can't work

By MARTIN CASSIDY

The Japanese are so addicted to work that they get sick when they're not working!

Recent reports say there are thousands of Japanese men who suffer from "weekend depression" caused by not being able to work, turning them into overeaters or alcoholics.

One overworked Oriental says he's agitated and on edge when he's not at the office working," the Japanese man said. For relief, he has to go back to work on weekends. Other stressed-out workers seek the healing hands of Dr. Takehiko Kikkawa at the National Institute of Mental Health in Ichikawa.

problem is not so much that they love the job," he said. "They have doubts about their ability to do it."

Dr. Kikkawa had one patient who consumed cream cakes and peanuts so much that he needed hospital treat-

MAN SELLS HIS OWN BODY PARTS TO PAY FOR HEART TRANSPLANT!

Arthur Dinkins is stripping his own body like a junked car, selling off his organs to the highest bidder — so he can raise money for the heart transplant he so desperately needs!

By BEATRICE DEXTER
Correspondent

The 47-year-old upstate New York truck driver suffers from cardiomyopathy, a damaging disease of the heart muscle. He has been told he will die if he does not get a new heart within the next six months. But his insurance company won't foot the $400,000 bill for the operation and medical expenses and Dinkins can't afford to pay for it himself.

"I have no choice but to raise money by selling off body organs I can do without," said Dinkins, who has already sacrificed an eye, a knee joint and one of his two kidneys in an effort to pay for his heart. "It's hard but, hey — I'm not going to turn my back on my only chance at life.

"I have raised $250,000 already and I still have one lung for sale and a standing offer to donate for skin grafts. I figure if I can donate most of my skin, I should have the money I need to get my transplant."

Dinkins says he wants to publicize his plight so that potential organ recipients will hear of his offer and perhaps buy his wares. But when the man's heart-rending quest for a new heart was described in a local medical news bulletin it stirred up a furor.

The man's supporters say it's a tragedy that Dinkins has to go to such lengths to pay for medical care, but they see nothing wrong with what he's doing.

Others call Dinkins' actions self-mutilation and are calling for legislation to stop similar practices.

But the one-eyed dad is not deterred by angry critics. With his wife and daughter by his side, he told The Weekly World News about his reactions to the organ donations.

"Sure, it's not easy to lose half your eyesight, your ability to walk, your organs and so forth," said Dinkins, who hasn't worked for eight months because of his faltering heart.

"But I look at my wife and my kid and I say, 'I'm not going to leave them if I can help it.' Besides, my quality of life will be much better with a strong and healthy heart. It may slow me down a little to have one leg, one eye and missing skin and organs, but at least I'll be feeling pretty good.

"And I'll be able to find a job and get on with my life instead of just lying around waiting to die."

THE determined one-eyed dad says he has no choice but to raise money by selling off his body organs

GUTSY Arthur Dinkins is selling his own body parts to raise the $400,000 he needs for a heart transplant. "I still have one lung for sale and a standing offer to donate for skin grafts," he says.

After shotgun mishap mangles her face...

Woman locked in attic for 60 years

Heartless family was ashamed of her scars!

Lighthearted Lisa Fattore was a bubbly, beautiful little girl who romped through life with a skip in her step and a sparkle in her big brown eyes.

But Lisa's life exploded in horror on her 13th birthday when a shotgun blast scarred her face so hideously her embarrassed mother locked her away in the attic — and kept her there for 60 years!

"It's such a sad story the people here can only shake their heads in sorrow," said an investigator in the Italian village of Matera.

"We're stunned that something so horrible was going on in our town since 1931," the heartsick official said. "They say she was such a precious child and now life has passed her by."

The tragic tale of the angel in the attic came to light when neighbors reported a chilling scream piercing the night from the direction of an old farmhouse outside Matera. A policeman went to the house and was stunned to discover a skinny, scared 73-year-old woman huddled behind the padlocked door.

"She was like a scarecrow, so frightened and so sickly looking," said lawman Lorenzo Bassi. "She said she was hungry. She wanted something to eat but she didn't want to be removed.

"She said, 'Leave me here. This is my life.'"

But Bassi persuaded the bewildered lady to accompany him to a hospital, where she was treated for malnutrition. Lisa's sister and brother-in-law were charged with kidnapping as police continued their investigation of a nightmare that began more than half a century ago.

Lisa's playmates remember her as a fun-loving child who vanished after a blast from a hunter's shotgun struck her in the face. Police say her mother Luigia, aghast at the scars left by the blast, had Lisa treated and then locked her away — visiting the attic only to feed her.

When her mother died, Lisa's sister Filomena continued to hold her prisoner, lawmen said.

"The sad thing is that this once-beautiful child could have been made beautiful again by plastic surgery," Investigator Bassi said.

Mom doesn't look a day over 7!

THIS LITTLE GIRL IS 30 YEARS OLD

Bizarre disease stops woman from aging — since 1968

TINY mom Sue McKenzie, left, and daughter Gabrielle during their recent appearance on a Japanese TV show.

. . . and THIS is her daughter!

By SUSAN JIMISON
Special correspondent

Mini-mom Sue McKenzie looks like she's 7 years old — but she's actually 30 and the mother of three!

The perky Charleston, S.C., secretary suffers from a bizarre disease that halted her growth in her early years. She stands 46 inches in her stocking feet — only four inches taller than her daughter Gabrielle, 7, a second grader.

"It used to bother me a lot being as small as I am, but now I think of it as an advantage," says Sue, who was recently invited to appear with Gabrielle on the Japanese television show Incredible People of the World. "I only have to pay half price at the movies, for instance, and I ride at half fare on public transportation.

"I buy my clothing for less because I wear children's sizes and my shoes cost a fraction of what an average-sized woman pays. The only hassle is having people ignore me or boss me around because they think I'm a kid. I can't stand that." Sue was perfectly normal until the age of 7, when her pituitary gland ceased to function and her growth ground to a halt. Although doctors tried various growth hormones to stimulate her development, nothing worked — and Sue became forever a child.

But the energetic pixie didn't let her size get her down. She graduated from high school, studied nursing at college and eventually married a doctor, from whom she is now divorced. Her three children were delivered by cesarean section because she was too small to deliver them normally, but they are healthy kids and have not inherited their mom's rare condition.

"Raising the children was hard because I was so small that I couldn't lift them as toddlers," Sue recalls. "And if I took the kids anywhere everybody thought they were without their parents. They wouldn't let us into stores alone and they kept ordering us around.

"Once a pushy lady called the police because she thought we were runaways. My husband had to come down to the station and explain that I was an adult."

Sue says she's looking forward to the time when her son Sammy, 12, gets his driver's license because she's so short she can't drive a car.

"I'd like to marry again someday, but it takes a special guy to like a babydoll like me," the mini-

BIG BIRD BLAST

Dad nearly blinded by exploding toothbrush!

By SHAWN DEENA
Staff writer

Rudy Mendoza could lose an eye from a toothbrush that blew up in his face.

Attorney Michael Benito said the injured dad was adjusting the batteries on his 2-year-old son Marco's electric Big Bird toothbrush, when one of them exploded, blowing acid and metal fragments into his face and eyes.

"We're not sure what happened, but the battery blew out of its metal casing like a shotgun shell," Benito said.

Doctors at St. Joseph's Hospital in Tampa, Fla., performed surgery to remove metal fragments from Mendoza's eyes. His right eye is improving, his left eye may never heal, Benito said.

"He may have to get a cornea transplant in a year if it heals but there's a possibility that he may be left with one eye," the lawyer said.

KABOOM! When the Big Bird toothbrush exploded dad Rudy Mendoza was nearly blinded.

The injured dad said he was happy his son wasn't hurt. "I'm glad it was me and not him," Mendoza said.

Benito said Mendoza was holding the toothbrush a few feet from his face.

"He pushed down on it and it worked for a second," the attorney said. "Then it stopped. While he was trying the second time, it exploded."

The Sparklin' Smile Big Bird Toothbrush and the remains of the AA Super Energy Wow! Store battery are being checked by experts to find the cause of the accident.

Benito said he's never heard of a battery blowing up like this.

TRUNK...

DRUNK elephant Pocki turned his owner's wedding into a wild rampage.

Groom's pet elephant ruins wedding day!

SONGKHLA, Thailand — The high-society wedding of Nancy and Ladaval Santiponchai was a stunning and solemn affair until the boozed-up bridegroom and his friends climbed aboard a drunken two-ton elephant — and charged through town, smashing windows, toppling cars and sending children fleeing for their lives!

The mind-boggling rampage did $25,000 damage in Songkhla, Thailand, and landed the hubby behind bars on his wedding night.

"It was the most horrifying thing I have ever seen," sobbed the shaken bride as she waited to bail out her jailed mate.

"They were monsters, all of them. They ruined my beautiful day and brought disgrace on all of us."

The madness began shortly after the young newlyweds tied the knot before 100 guests at the lavish estate of Nancy's wealthy uncle on the outskirts of Songkhla.

"The wedding had been beautiful and the reception seemed to be going smoothly at first," recalled Chamnong Raksasuk, a longtime friend of the groom. "Everyone was sipping wine and beer, and I noticed that Ladaval and several men were beginning to get a little drunk and loud.

"Suddenly there was an awful commotion in a thicket of trees alongside the garden and everyone rushed to see what was happening. When I got there I couldn't believe it. It was a mad-house and everyone had forgotten about the wedding.

"Ladaval had brought his pet elephant Pocki and he and the others had it over by this tub.

"They had filled the tub with beer and wine and the elephant was swilling it down, loving every drop."

Moments later, the groom and three of his pickled pals climbed aboard the inebriated elephant and the beast charged off, headed straight for town.

"The men were whooping and hollering and poor Nancy was screaming at them to stop, but by then everything was out of control," Raksasuk said. "The situation turned nasty in a hurry."

The tipsy elephant and his pie-eyed passengers barged through the streets, scattering screaming pedestrians, banging into parked cars and crashing into buildings.

The boozed-up beast was finally corralled with the aid of a tranquilizing gun.

The four passengers were rounded up and tossed in the pokey to sleep it off.

"I guess we kind of lost our heads," the hubby moaned the morning after the wedding.

Chief's been a lawman, cowboy and a movie actor

His leathery skin and high cheekbones make you feel this elderly Indian is who he claims to be — grandson of the feared Apache warrior, Geronimo.

He's at least 99 with long gray hair and lives alone in a ramshackle wooden cabin near Tucson, Ariz. He calls himself Chief Geronimo III.

"Grandfather said to me just before he died, 'Promise me one thing. Don't go to the reservation. Why? Because you will be one of them. Get out in the world and face the people. See how you can get along.' So I took my freedom like Grandfather told me," he said.

So he's lived his life in a white man's world. He's been a cowboy, a lawman and an actor in more than 200 films, including The High Chaparral.

"I've been hurt many, many times," he said. "Sometimes they treat me like a hungry dog. But I was born a man with a good background. I am proud of my grandfather."

His famous namesake took over the fight to regain the Apache nation in 1874, after the government abolished the reservation and shipped the Apaches to the east coast.

For 10 incredible years, Geronimo and 17 Apache warriors fought to regain their homeland, eluding 5,000 soldiers until they surrendered in 1886. He spent the remaining 23 years of his life as a prisoner of war.

In his final years, Geronimo professed Christianity and became a figure in several public spectacles, including Theodore Roosevelt's inauguration parade.

The warrior finally died in Fort Sill, Okla., in 1909. The sad ending for the great Indian chief is something that has long stuck with his grandson, giving him bitter memories.

Geronimo III describes his grandfather as a "broken-hearted, disappointed man. He wanted so bad to come home. To eat the nuts and the pinyons from his country. He was tired.

"Like my grandfather, I am a bit psychic," he said. "Things come to me two or three days ahead of time. I can look into the flames and see what happens.

"Grandfather was that way. He'd look into the fire and suddenly he would make a loud noise. Everyone would run for cover. And sure enough, 20 minutes later the soldiers would come."

The faithful grandson was with his grandfather until the very end. "I was with Geronimo when he passed away," said the grandson. "He said, 'My time is up.' I said, 'Who's going to kill you?' 'Calm down, young man,' he said. 'It is not a man who will kill me. No man will ever kill me. But the spirit has told me that my time is up.'"

Geronimo III doesn't think the spirit is ready for him.

CHIEF Geronimo III claims he has psychic powers, just like his granddad, Geronimo, the Apache warrior.

MEET GERONIMO'S GRANDSON

. . . he's the only living kin of the famous Apache chief!

Cannibal shocker!

Angry woman eats her own mom, cops say

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

An angry, 61-year-old woman has been locked up in a California jail — after almost eating her aged mother alive.

Shocked cops found the blood-smeared mom, Mildred Mortenson, 87, lying on a bedroom floor in the house of horror sobbing in pain from at least 20 bites that ripped huge chunks of flesh from her face and arms.

"That poor woman had been cannibalized . . . used for snacks. The whole scene made you wanna throw up," said one young cop.

"She looked like she'd been attacked by a wild animal," he said. "Some of the bites were clear down to the bone. Pieces of human flesh were lying on the carpet."

Police were called to the creepy house in San Francisco after neighbors complained of hearing something like a fight. Daughter Barbara Mortenson met Officer Steven Bokura at the front door.

"She had dried blood covering her face and was wearing a night-gown which was completely soaked with blood in front," Officer Bokura said.

Her hurt, trembling mother was lying on a blood-soaked bedroom carpet with bruises on her face, arms, legs and stomach.

"She made me mad, so mad," the daughter told cops.

Police arrested Barbara Mortenson on charges of willful infliction of corporal injury, aggravated mayhem and battery.

Her elderly mother was hospitalized in sta-

Hold your man's hand — & read him like a book

By MILLIE SPENCER
Special to The NEWS

You can know everything you need to know about that man who's caught your eye — just by learning to read the clues hidden in his hands, two top experts say.

Authors Sally Fry and Rosalind Craig, whose book Destiny is a big seller, say the lines and shape of any man's hands reveal much about his nature.

Hands tell a lot about a guy's personality

"Men's hands show me whether they are temperamental or placid, have high blood pressure or are unnaturally calm, whether they are practical, idealistic, money-oriented or so highly imaginative they could easily plunge deep into depression," said Miss Craig.

The palmist and her coauthor have a number of tips on using a man's hands to read him like a book. Here are a few for Weekly World News readers:

● The palms: Dry skin in the palm indicates a person who develops a temperature easily. Sweaty palms belong to men who are prone to liver or kidney disorders and who have ill-balanced moral natures. A silky smooth palm foretells rheumatism. Red palm skin points to a violent nature and high blood pressure while pale skin may indicate selfishness.

Pink, faintly mottled skin indicates a cheerful, well-balanced personality.

● Back of hands: Hairy hands indicate energetic, sexy men with a passionate nature. Watch out for red hair, however — it belongs to a person with a low flash point.

● Thumbs: A long thumb indicates someone who wants to impress. A thin one shows the person is cold and distant. Apple-polishers hold their thumbs close to the fingers. People with conical thumbs are impulsive and those with thick thumbs are overbearing. A person who holds his thumbs at right angles wants to make an impact.

● Index finger: A pointed index finger indicates a bossy person, while an extra-big one reveals ambition.

● Middle finger: People who have long middle fingers tend to be too serious. Those whose fingertip bends toward the fourth finger may have back problems. Those whose tip bends toward the index finger have trouble facing up to life.

● Fourth finger: A person whose fourth finger bends toward the middle finger ought to marry an older person. They may be unrealistic and guilty when it comes to love.

● The little finger: This one reveals sexual problems. A low-set little finger that is rooted deep in the palm reveals a fixation on one or both parents, a factor that can lead to inhibitions or fears in the bedroom. A little finger that bends toward the palm indicates prudishness and one that is held away from the other

Grave robbers steal corpse's head & feet!

Cops are looking for the human ghouls who broke open a mausoleum and removed the head, feet and arms from a dead man's body.

The rest of the 66-year-old man's remains were found lying outside the mausoleum at the Memorial Park Cemetery in Detroit, still inside the coffin.

"There has never been an incident of this type here," said a police spokesman.

Police believe the body snatchers entered the mausoleum between 9:30 at night on a Friday and 8:30 the following morning. They opened the crypt, hacked off the man's head, feet and arms below the elbow, then ran off leaving one arm behind. If caught they face up to 10 years in prison for dismembering a body.

Veggie oil will run our cars, say scientists

Americans may someday pull up to the gas pumps and fill up their cars with vegetable oil!

Two scientists at the University of Idaho have discovered that veggie oil is at least as good a fuel as diesel and is better for the environment.

"During the war in the Middle East, I calculated that if we diverted the country's unused agricultural property we could have grown all the petroleum equivalent we were fighting for in Iraq and Kuwait," said Dick Auld, one of the researchers. "We started out to make a fuel as good as diesel. When we got done we had one that was better."

Auld and colleague Charles Peterson found that vegetable oil mixed with methanol or ethanol results in a mixture almost identical with diesel. One hundred pounds of an oil-rich vegetable, like rapeseed, will produce five gallons of high quality fuel.

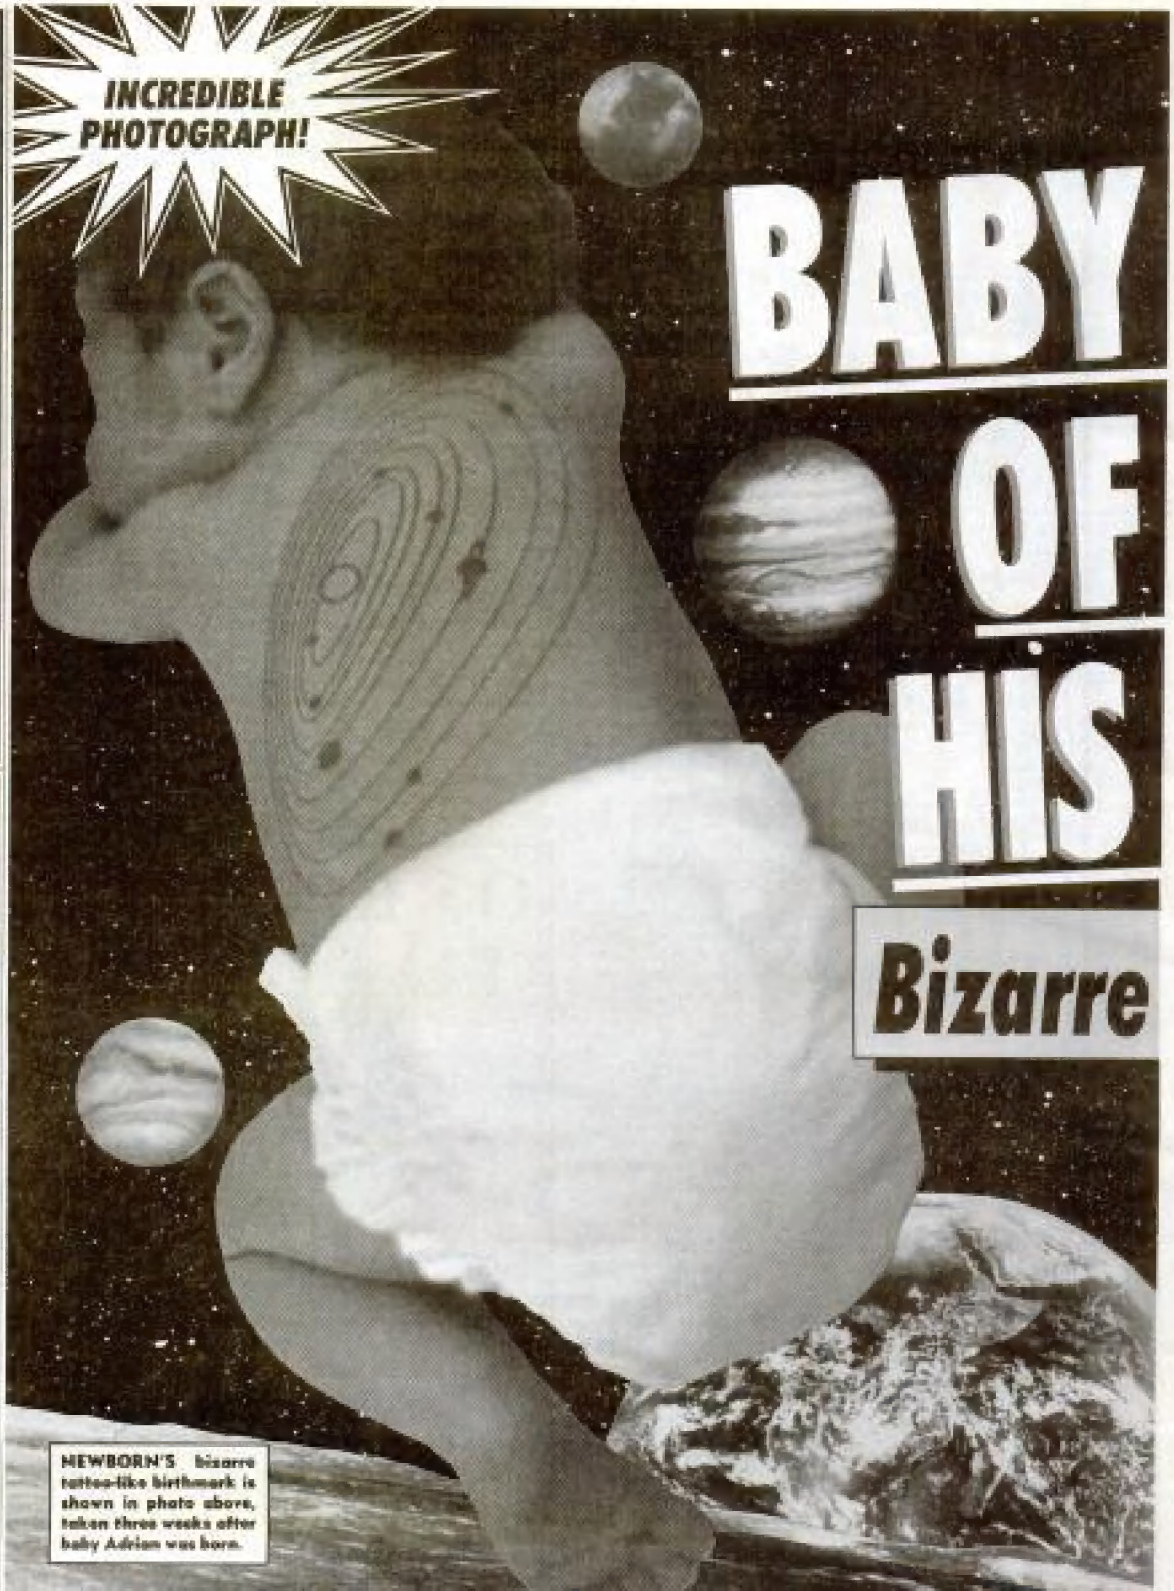
BABY OF HIS Bizarre



NEWBORN'S bizarre tattoo-like birthmark is shown in photo above, taken three weeks after baby Adrian was born.

BORN WITH MAP OF SOLAR SYSTEM ON BACK!

birthmark baffles docs!

By JOE BERGER
Staff writer

Amazing baby Adrian Sabin is a perfectly normal little boy in every way, with one mind-blowing exception — the bizarre babe was born with a map of the solar system tattooed on his back!

And six world-renowned researchers summoned to Chicago to examine the 3-week-old infant say they haven't the slightest idea why his tiny back is emblazoned with a detailed drawing of the sun and planets.

"We have conducted every test imaginable and have concluded that what we see here is totally inexplicable within the framework of 20th century medical science," said befuddled French physician Dr. Christian Delohen.

TOP expert Dr. Delohen flew in from France.

"We're simply baffled, every one of us.

"I am a man of science, but I'm convinced there is something supernatural going on here, some force at work beyond our wildest imaginations. It's fascinating — and kind of terrifying, too."

The hair-raising tale began last month when unsuspecting Summer Sabin, 26, gave birth to dark-eyed Adrian in a Chicago hospital.

"I remember lying there moments after I had my baby, and I heard the doctors and nurses buzzing around," the shell-shocked mom recalled. "I kept saying, 'Let me hold him, let me hold him.' And then they gave him to me and when I saw his back I almost flipped out.

"I said, 'What is that thing, some kind of joke?' And they said, 'We're sorry, honey, we just don't know what it is.'"

Dumbfounded doctors told the boy's frantic parents the drawing might rub off or simply disappear in time, but after three or four days they were clue what it was, how it got there or how to get rid of it," said dad Dennis, 28.

So stumped Chicago doctors called in internationally renowned experts from four countries to attempt to solve the mystery of the century.

But the boy with the wild blue yonder on his back has proved just as puzzling to this top-notch team of physicians, scientists and parapsychologists as he is to his mortified mom and dad.

"This is really as exciting as any event in the last 20 years — and I'm convinced that this baby will eventually provide proof of reincarnation once and for all," said Swedish psychic scientist Gunilla Rogers.

"What we see on little Adrian's back is an uncannily accurate chart of our solar system — and it's clear he didn't get that in his mother's womb.

"This baby obviously lived before.

"But the questions that remain are where in this universe did he live and when — and how in the hell did he get that map of the planets tattooed on his back?"
